Globe Safes

are roomy, portable, orderly, secure, convenient, sightly. The great convenience of a Globe Safe to the busy man who hurriedly places important papers, documents, records, books, etc., into it for protection against fire and prying eyes, before leaving his office, entirely overshadows the comparatively small cost for safe and sections. Catalogues upon request. Agents for Barre.

By the end of the coming week the granite firm of Mills & Shield expects to be occupying its new granite manufacturing plant in Depot square. The structure is practically completed and except for the finishing up of a few minor odds and ends, the shed is even now ready for occupancy. Yesterday the city water connections were made at the plant, and the boiler and heating systems were given a thorough test. In size and shape the new shed is much like the newer type of granite plants that have been erected in Barre lately. Some of the men in the employ of the firm have been notified to appear early in the week and by the end of the week it is expected that the full force will be employed.

Saturday, Jan. 15, is the date selected by the All-Star bowling team of Barre for its alley clash with the strong Manchester, N. H., team. In all probability the matches will be rolled at the Merlo alleys and during the coming week a number of candidates for the local team will find their status by the process of elimination, as several preliminary matches are projected. From Barre the Manchesters will go to Washington, D. C., to participate in the National Bowling congress.

Alfred Edwards, Alexander Kirtton and Andy Falconer of Farwell street have arrived home from a 10 days' visit to George Thompson, formerly of Barre, now serving in the Grenadier Guards in Canada. He expects to get leave to visit his old home on Farwell street in this city before his regiment goes to Egypt or France. It is said that the Grenadier Guards are the finest regiment that has been raised in Canada yet. Having a battalion of 1,700 men, they expect to leave Canada around the 17th or 20th of January.

The introduction of debating in the eighth grades of the city schools is proving of much value already, in the opinion of the teachers, and an effort will be made to continue the work among students about to enter the high school.

Yesterday the second debate was given on the following topic: "Resolved, That China will some day rival the United States commercially." The affirmative was supported by Isabel Beattie and Frances Fadden, while the negative side was argued by Reginald Johnston and Cedric Snyder. Both sides did some excellent arguing and the judges, Prin. H. E. Jackson and Miss Partridge, were scarcely able to reach a decision. Owing to the careful handling of the subject by young Johnston, the negative side won.

It must be mentioned, however, that Miss Beattie exhibited unusual ability in her delivery, as did Miss Fadden, while Cedric Snyder brought out the largest number of reasons why China will never rival the United States. The volunteers, Dorothy Shaw, Ruth Veno, Harold Morrison and John Gates, advanced some very fine points in favor of the negative.

Another of Goddard seminary's boy athletes is to make his bow in fast company, according to a statement in yesterday's Boston Journal, which announced that Claude Hastings of Chester, Mass., is to be given a tryout with the Red Sox at Hot Springs, Ark., next March. The Journal says: "Claude Hastings, the Washington and Lee pitcher, a right-hander, has decided not to complete his college course. He expects to get a tryout with the Red Sox at Hot Springs and is confident that he can make good in the big show. Among Hastings' victories at W. and L. were a 6 to 0 decision over Cornell, a 3 to 1 12-inning win from Catholic university and a defeat registered against North Carolina and the Agricultural and Mining school. To local followers of inter-scholastic sports, Hastings is well known as the former Dorchester high and Goddard seminary athlete." Hastings came to Goddard in 1913 as a protégé of Coach Charlie Hoernle. He figured prominently in the seminary's fine diamond record the following spring. Recently Lawton Whit, another Goddard boy and a Hoernle "find," signed with Connie Mack's Athletics. He, too, will go south in March.

Vermont Mormon Conference in Barre.

The Vermont conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will be held in the Foresters hall on North Main street, Barre, Jan. 10. Elder James E. Talmage of the counsel of the twelve and Elder Walter P. Munson, president of the eastern states mission, will be the main speakers. Dr. Talmage represented Mormonism at the religious congress of philosophies, held in San Francisco July 29 to 31, in connection with the international exposition, and it may be conceded that he is proficient and an able speaker. Pres. Munson is also an efficient speaker. We appeal to the fair-mindedness of the people of Barre and vicinity to attend this conference, where the principles of the gospel of Christ will be presented from a Mormon point of view. The people of Barre have had the privilege of attending anti-Mormon lectures given by Prof. Davis and others. We extend a cordial invitation to all who wish to be present on this special occasion. Time of meetings, 2 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. No collection, free to all. Pres. Robert Schmid, Elder Carlyle Chaffin.

For the second time within two days the mercury fell into unwelcome depths this morning, varying reports seeming to settle on an average for the city of 22 degrees below zero. At 10 o'clock last night the thermometer stood at minus 8; an hour afterward the depression in quick silver was marked by two additional degrees. The lowest registration came about 4 o'clock this morning, although at 8 o'clock plenty of thermometers could be found that would testify to 10 below. A few whistles called men out of their homes at 7:30, but the few men who responded were told, in most instances, to go home and not return until Monday morning. Not before this winter has the weather interfered seriously with the working plans at the stonehills.

C. G. French, manager of the repair department at the Tilden Shoe Co.'s store, met a connoisseur of old razors of his own type yesterday when John A. Foss, a shoeman from Boston, entered the store. Mr. French had prided himself on possessing the most valuable collection of antique razors this side of the Mason and Dixon line, but a glance at Mr. Foss' stock, which consisted of one lone blade, convinced him that the virtue of his assortment rested in numbers and not in age. Not with malice, but to emphasize his faith in the razor, Mr. Foss flashed a finely tempered blade that was made by Wade & Butcher early in the 18th century. Mr. French's oldest razor fell so far short of Mr. Foss' W. & B. that Mr. Foss was moved to inquire if the varnish on any of Mr. French's razor handles was really dry. The two razor fanciers spent a pleasurable half-hour talking about whisker blades.
